EXTREME SCIENCE COMES TO THE ICE HOUSE

BERKELEY SPRINGS, WV—

Why should kids have all the fun? In the middle of a week when Hagerman the Magician presents his Extreme Science show to all the students in Morgan County, an expanded two person version with bigger illusions is staged at the Ice House for the whole family.

On Wednesday, November 8 at 7pm, Hagerman and his assistant bring a touch of original magic, music and surprising comedy to everything from bungee cord energy and gyroscope balancing to shocking electrical experiences. Your notions of learning science through magic will be changed forever.

This educational entertainment is perfect for all ages and is open to all. Admission is by donation.

For nearly two decades, Hagerman has entertained over one million people performing his unique vaudeville style at fairs, theme parks and schools all over the country. As a scholar of comedy, Hagerman puts many great belly laughs into each of his shows. As an inventor of magic, his routines are often sought after by other magicians. Be warned – this secretive magician keeps his original magic for live shows; it cannot be seen in online videos.

Hagerman's Extreme Science program in the schools is part of the Morgan Arts Council's Adopt-a-School program. Funding for this and other Adopt-a-School programs comes in part from the National Endowment for the Arts, the West Virginia Commission on the Arts, the Eastern West Virginia Community Foundation, and local hotel/motel taxes.

The Ice House is at the corner of Independence and Mercer Streets in downtown Berkeley Springs, WV. For more information on this and other MAC activities, call 204-258-2300 or visit www.macicehouse.org.
